Senate Splits On Rent Curbs

GOP Wants To Include Local Option

Washington, March 21—(AP)—The Senate split down party lines today on the merits of a house-approved plan to let states, counties or cities shrug off federal rent controls whenever they like.

Republicans generally argued in favor of the idea. Democrats said the power to lift controls should be given only to the states.

The disagreement came as President Truman said lobbyists are trying to kill off controls entirely and his lieutenants prodded the Senate to act quickly.

The present rent law expires March 31, only 10 days away.

The senate opened debate on a bill to continue controls for 12 to 15 months and allow some rentals to increase 10 per cent over a year's period.

Democratic leader Lucas of Illinois urged his colleagues to stick to the subject. He said that unless the senate makes good progress, he will call night sessions starting Wednesday.

Mr. Truman, in an address to the U.S. conference of mayors, had some harsh words for the "local option" provision of the 15-month extension the House has passed.

The President said the real estate lobby is in favor of such a plan "not in order to strengthen local authority, but in order to destroy rent controls."

Opening senate debate, Maybank said it would be "most hazardous and unwise" to scrap rent controls now. He said the Banking committee "couldn't honestly say that housing was or would be sufficiently available for any class outside the luxury group before next year."

He defended a provision of the senate bill which would permit the individual states to take over rent control programs if they wish.

"It is my personal view and the view of the majority of the committee that the states are in the best position to judge whether that state requires rent control," Maybank said.

Scrap Industry No Longer Wants Old Papers, Magazines

Chicago, March 21—(AP)—You might as well stop saving old newspapers and magazines. The scrap industry no longer will buy them. In fact, you will have to pay to have them hauled away.

Members of the national association of waste material dealers announced this decision today.

It doesn't apply only to householders. Office and apartment building managers, shopkeepers and factory owners also no longer can sell such scrap paper. Individuals and companies once could pick up as much as $10,000 a month by selling waste paper, the association said.

Reason for the decision, called the "first in the industry's history," is the glut of waste paper in warehouses and the high cost of handling it.

Resume Meetings To Settle Wabash Railroad Strike

St. Louis, March 21—(P)—Representatives of the Wabash railroad and yard unions whose members walked out last Tuesday were meeting tonight in an effort to settle the strike.

The meeting started in the afternoon and was resumed following a recess for dinner. The sessions were held in the general offices of the railroad.

The rail and union officers went into conference after the special fact-finding board appointed by President Truman suggested the two sides try to reach a settlement.

Chief Justice Roger I. McDonough of Utah, chairman of the board, pointed out that hearings by the board could not proceed while the railroad employees are on strike. The board then adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The strike by about 3,500 members of the four operating unions has stopped operations of the railroad and forced the laying off of about 8,500 non-operating employees, a company spokesman said.

The walkout followed the failure to settle more than 100 grievance cases which the unions have against the company. The cases are based primarily on interpretation of wage schedule rules.

House Committee Agrees To Large Cut In ECA Funds

Washington, March 21—(AP)—House foreign affairs committee members reported tentative agreement today on a $200,000,000 cut in new Marshall plan authorization.

But they said this may be offset by another provision of the bill designed to make $300,000,000 in private investment funds available for European recovery.

All the committee's actions are subject to review at a session called for tomorrow when final action is expected on the new bill to finance the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Seven European countries, western Germany and French territories shared in the Marshall plan grants bringing to $4,846,839,000 the total American aid committed under the European recovery program.

Truman Refuses Request To Put Off Signing Pact

Washington, March 21—(AP)—

President Truman has turned down a senator's suggestion that signing of the Atlantic pact be put off until there have been 60 days public discussion of it.

In a letter to Senator Watkins (R-Utah), Mr. Truman said he anticipates "full public and senatorial consideration" before the senate acts on the treaty.

Watkins made the letter public today. It was dated March 17 and was in response to a proposal from Watkins for a 60-day wait between publication of the treaty and its signing.

The treaty was made public last Friday. The formal signing is to be April 4.

The state department can sign the treaty but it will not be binding on the United States until the Senate approves it.

Executives Of FEW Union Arrive For National Meeting

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, March 21—(AP)—

National executive board members of the CIO Farm Equipment Workers union were arriving today to make preliminary plans for the union's international convention which opens here Friday.

The convention is expected to have two chief issues before it:

1. The ordered merger with the CIO United Auto Workers which was adopted at the CIO's last national convention at Portland.

2. The proposed seven-hour day which Charles Hobbie, Cedar Rapids, president of the UFEW's Cedar northwest district, says will be a hotter issue than the merger question.

"There isn't any doubt in my mind what will happen to the merger order," says Hobbie, a sharp critic of the national CIO convention's action.

Meanwhile there were indications that John T. Watkins, director of the UFEW president at Rock Island, Ill., would oppose incumbent Grant Oakes of Chicago for the presidency of the union.

Sentence Two For Ambush Slaying

Watseka, Ill., March 21—(AP)—A husky blonde and her steeple-jack boy friend were sentenced to prison terms of 60 years and 99 years respectively today for murdering the woman's divorced husband.

Georgia Irene Bookless, 26-year-old Iroquois county divorcee, and Almon Epperson, 31, of Evansville, Ind., were sentenced by Circuit Court Judge Roscoe South after both had pleaded guilty.

The ex-husband, Edward Steiner, 31, was shot from ambush at his Buckley farm home on Jan. 24. He died in Paxton Community hospital Feb. 1.

Helicopter Rescues Downed Fliers From Mountainside

Maryville, Tenn., March 21—(AP)—A helicopter pilot with a steady hand and a big grin braved tricky winds and a tiny hand-hewn landing area today to lift four injured plane crash victims from a rugged mountainside.

Pilot J. Newcomb, 28, of Glendale, Calif., dropped his small craft four times into a desolate mountain hollow 30 miles south of here to rescue the four, one a woman.

The victims had been marooned on the snow-covered mountainside in the Smokies for three days. A fifth occupant of the plane which crashed Friday afternoon on a flight from Detroit to Miami, struggled 25 miles in 42 hours to summon help.

Those rescued by Newcomb were: James Hardy, 21; Orville Rich, 38; and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall, all of Detroit. They were reported in good condition at Blount Memorial hospital here.

Twenty-four hours earlier, Stephen

A. Walker, 45, also of Detroit, the fifth occupant of the crashed two-engine plane, stumbled to a telephone to break news of the crash. He was scratched and bruised from his long hike but otherwise was in good condition.

Newcomb, a World War II bomber pilot, completed his hazardous rescue mission in less than three hours. In all he made six flights to a spot near the crash scene from which he lifted his cargo. On one he took axes for a ground party to hack out a landing "field."

Mrs. Hall, 42, in gray slacks and a lightweight topcoat, summed up the gratitude of all when she clasped Newcomb's hand at the nearby town of Calderwood where he landed. Said she: "Thanks!"

All praised Dr. Robert H. Haranson, Jr., Maryville physician who was lowered into the mountainous country near the Tennessee-North Carolina line late yesterday by a rope-ladder from Newcomb's helicopter.

THE 13 YEAR OLD REPORTER

Bill Clark's appearance as guest speaker before the Business and Professional Woman's club Thursday night served to stir memories of his first association with the Journal Courier.

It was vacation season some years ago. Dr. S. N. Clark told us his son Bill didn't have anything special to occupy his time. "Just let him hang around, as he is much interested in newspaper work," Dr. Clark said.

The prospects did not appear too rosy, as young Mr. Clark was only 13 years old at that time. Somehow or other, he had managed to pick up the knack of operating a typewriter. He hadn't written any news stories in particular, but had a pretty fair record in the English classes at the David Prince Junior High school, from which he was graduated.

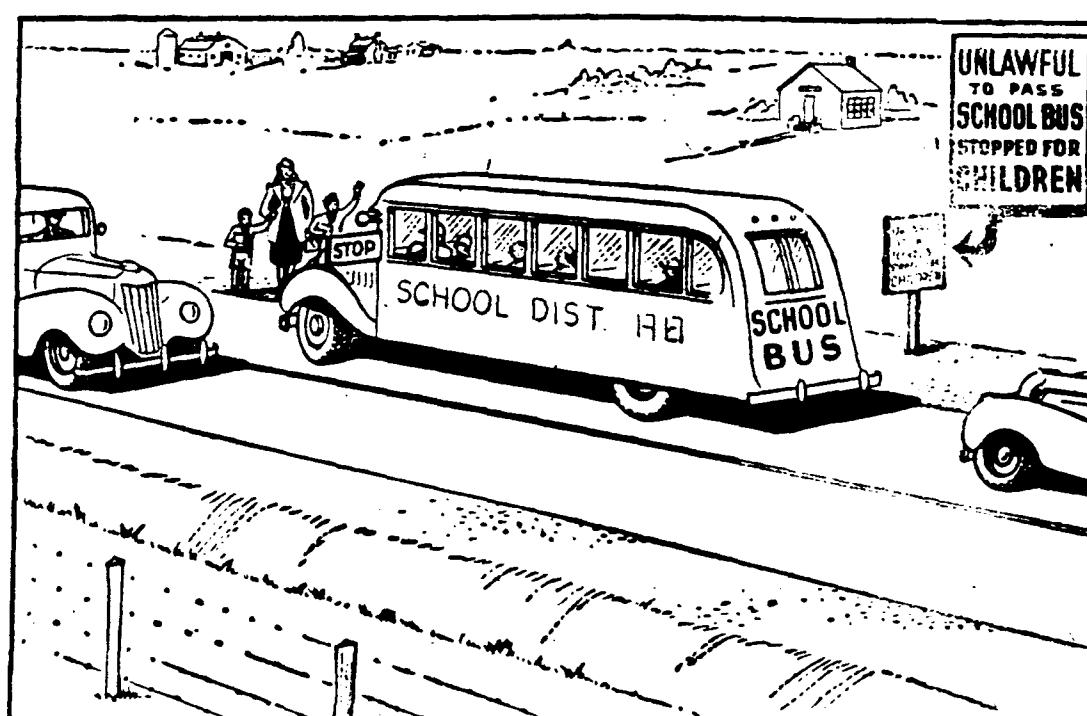

On the first morning of his introduction to journalistic atmosphere, the switchboard operator announced that the White Hall correspondent was on the line with facts about a burglary. The more experienced reporters were absent from the news room just at that moment. Young Mr. Clark was the only prospect in the way of reportorial talent. We knew he had never written a burglary—or much of anything else. We felt a pang of guilt as we gave the youngster the nod.

The 13 year old reporter picked up the receiver, listening intently to the voice on the line. His face was a study in seriousness. He began taking notes with a pencil. After completing the call he planted himself resolutely in front of a typewriter. This was no time for play. The cub reporter cut into his story. He put a White Hall dateline on the story, as is the custom when news is phoned from other towns, and pounded out the account of how the burglars smashed a window, jimmied the safe, and escaped with a considerable amount of cash.

The young reporter turned in his story on the desk. We could hardly believe what we saw. Here was a story, well written, neatly typed, the work of a small boy who was spending his first day in a newspaper office. We knew that he lacked experience, so the only conclusion we could draw was that he was talented.

"Is the kid can handle stories like that at 13, what can he do when he's grown?" we asked some of the older staff members.

Time has answered that question. Bill Clark, now more than 13, but still a young man of unusual promise, is a financial writer for the Chicago Tribune.

CARS MUST STOP WHEN SCHOOL BUS STOPS

One of the traffic regulations which causes much misunderstanding among motorists is the ruling which requires all cars to stop when a school bus stops. This applies not only to the cars behind the bus, but also to those cars approaching from an opposite direction.

John C. Deem, county superintendent of schools, warned that the violation of this law has increased the problem of transporting children to and from school, creating a dangerous situation as children are boarding or alighting from a school bus.

Many motorists are unaware that they must stop when a bus stops, even when they are meeting the bus. The driver of the bus is obliged to raise the stop arm on the left side of the bus as he stops. The driver of any vehicle must stop until the arm is withdrawn.

Fireman At Hospital Shoots Self In Head; Found Dying In Trailer

Herman Clifford Sights, 58, a fireman at Jacksonville State hospital, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head, according to a verdict of a jury at an inquest conducted by Coroner Clarence H. Muehlhausen at the Cody & Son Memorial Home Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Sights was found in his trailer at the Elm Grove Trailer Court on Jacksonville Route 36, near the Oaklawn Sanatorium, shortly after 10 o'clock Saturday night, by Wilbert Fitzsimmons of Ashland, also a fireman at the State hospital, who had gone to the court to ascertain why Sights had not reported for work.

Sights died at Passavant Hospital at 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

States Attorney Albert W. Hall was present at the inquest, and questioned the various witnesses.

Dr. Hugh McKinley, 1201 South Main street, was the first witness at the inquest. He gave the report of a post mortem and stated that he found a puncture wound over the right ear, but no powder burns. He said that the bullet entered the brain and lodged over the left eye. He found traces of only one bullet.

Sees Rifle By Side

Fitzsimmons told the jury that when Sights failed to report for work he drove to the trailer camp. After knocking on the door of the Sights trailer and getting no response, he opened the door and saw Sights lying on the floor with a .22 caliber rifle by his side. He went to the office of the court and summoned a doctor, ambulance, and notified the sheriff.

Paul A. Williams, who occupied a trailer near Sights, said that Sights moved into a trailer at the court last fall. He said he visited Sights often and talked with him on Friday night. Mr. Williams said that Sights had often talked of suicide. He said he noticed a change in Sights during the past three weeks. He told the jurors that Sights had told him that if anything happened that there were some papers in a box in the trailer.

Deputy Sheriff John Irland told of being called to the trailer Saturday night. He said he found Sights lying on the floor, his head toward the east and that there was a rifle and knife on the left side of the body, with the muzzle pointing toward the west. There were no powder burns at the point where the bullet entered the head.

It was brought out at the inquest that an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation had stated that if a gun was held more than three inches away there would be no powder burns.

Death By Suicide

The verdict was as follows:

"We, the jurors, find that Herman Clifford Sights came to his death by self-inflicted .22 caliber bullet entering above the right ear with suicidal intent."

Members of the jury were Edward Moy, foreman; Charles Roach, Robert A. Robinson, Harold Ludwig, Clyde Fitch, Leland Barger. Mrs. Nancy Schindler was the stenographer.

Mr. Sights was born near McLeansboro, Hamilton county, Illinois, December 26, 1890, the son of Melton Douglas and Nancy Jeffries Sights.

He was a member of Local 303, International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers Union, being recording secretary of that organization.

Sydney, Australia.—(P)—When Max Way of Brisbane dropped a mango seed down his sink recently he thought that was the last he would see of it. Way decided to see what happened and four weeks later the tree was still growing with shoots about 3 in. long.

CROGER THE LODGER

By Elizabeth R. Roberts

COPYRIGHT BY GREENBERG: PUBLISHER
DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

The characters in this story are completely fictitious. Likeness to anyone living or dead is purely coincidental. In contrast, the episode is true, based upon events which I viewed from a window seat.

BACK IN THE horse-and-buggy days little girls were brought up not to speak to strangers, especially men. Mother began drumming this admonition into me when I was a very young child, and she never stopped as long as she lived. She must have had a premonition that talking to strangers, especially men, would lead to something. And it did.

Mother began cautioning me the first time I, a little girl in pigtails, was handed 10 cents for carfare and put on the crosstown trolley to spend the day with cousins who lived too far for me to ride my bike to see them. "Don't speak to strangers, especially men," she said the last thing that bright summer morning, without giving a reason, and I therefore promptly associated men with my dime.

Mother's advice was good, only it didn't go far enough. Where she fell down was in never cautioning me against speaking to strangers, especially men in uniform. If she had stressed that danger, I might never have fallen into the dubious occupation of running a rooming house.

It all began innocently enough. Great Falls has each winter a Community Concert series. Nothing so vulgar as tickets is sold; we subscribe to the course and are assigned regular seats with the result that after the first performance or two we all sit at home and amongst friends, seated in our usual seats and surrounded by the usual faces. At the third concert of our winter season, there were two strange faces sitting next to

I saw the door thrown open to a tall figure in khaki, whose patent leather hair and little black mustache completely transcended his uniform.

I'd feel mortified to have your wife see it," I included her with a smile. "Now if you were a lone man," I led with my chin, "that might be different. Men aren't obnoxious, I've found." I signed off with a you-see-how-it-is look of resignation. Too late I realized I'd stepped on a verbal banana peel.

Captain Homeless let me have my moment. Then he said, "I have just the right fellow for you, Mrs. Roberts. A sergeant. He's quite a gentleman, I think. He's living at the hotel, too, and thoroughly unable to afford it. It would be a Christian charity for you to take him in and I'd even forgive you for not taking us."

ROB, though he'd been tuned in to this point, suddenly went off the air. I could not reach him with my frantic S O S; he was impervious to the pressure of picnickers.

Driving home from the concert, I waited for Rob to open the subject of the roomer. When we were nearly to our corner and he hadn't said a word about it, I prodded him. A doctor once diagnosed me as a truck with a one-cylinder engine, whereas he found Rob to be as sleek as his convertible, ungiven to hard work, but with a wealth of power in reserve. Therefore I wasn't surprised when Rob said, "I think we're doing enough for the war effort. Being air raid warden is no cinch, and you're up to your ears in Red Cross activities. Besides," he added plaintively, "we gave Bill."

"No we didn't. He gave himself. We couldn't have kept him out."

We rode along in silence for another block or two. Then I tried again to clear with Sydney. "What do you think about renting a room?" I repeated.

"In an hour then?"

"Yes, an hour should be all right."

"Roger," he barked in most clipped and military syllables.

Full speed ahead I finished baking the cookies, changed out of the house dress, and was flapping powder on my red and perspiring face when the front door chimes rang. "I'll get it!" Rob called. He and a fire horse had something in common in the matter of bells. As I descended the stairs, I saw the door thrown open to a tall figure in khaki, whose patent leather hair, sideburns, and little black mustache completely transcended his drab uniform.

Women Join Polish Union

Warsaw, Poland—(P)—Women steadily increasing numbers are joining Poland's communist-controlled trade unions associations. A recent report listed 888,000 women out of a total of 3,500,000 members.

The highest percentage of women trade unionists are employed in the ready-made clothes, textiles, food and printing industries. Under Poland's communist-directed "work competition" scheme, 16,000 women have attained the distinction of "work champions." These workers get extra pay and privileges for exceeding their monthly or yearly production targets.

Following the supper, Dr. Marston will conduct a round table discussion on "Thoughts on Immortality?" Is personality destructible? What should be our attitude in the passing of our loved ones? Is it wrong to mourn? Does social immortality have the answer? Do we want to live again? Does belief in transmigration of souls help? What about reincarnation?

During the evening Miss Mildred Eubank will present a piano solo of hymn variations and will also accompany the group in hymn singing. All members and friends are cordially invited to attend.
